

Simon Cowell Spotted Driving a smart with Kahn Wheels

When you think about celebrities that like to ride in style, vehicles measuring at least 5 meters in length are the first thing that comes to mind and top British music man Simon Cowell is no exception, as he likes to drive around in cars belonging to brands such as Rolls Royce and Bugatti.

However, Cowell was recently spotted behind the wheel of a customized smart. The adjacent photo was taken when he was leaving the CBS studios in Los Angeles, with the 52-year-old looking happy to receive some media attention. The vehicle was tuned by California-based company SMART MADNESS, which used parts from multiple aftermarket developers.

One of the reasons for which Cowell chose the Kahn smart could be the fact that the vehicle rides on a set of special Kahn wheels. These use an elegant multi-spoke design and come in a 17-inch size. Of course, driving a smart also brings you an eco-fan status, which is more than desirable nowadays by those who want to be loved by the public.
